

18 May, 2023

To whom it may concern

FR Program Manager, Prof. Haruyuki Nakano

AS Program Manager, Prof. Hiroshi Suzuki

Overview of the Graduate School Education

We would like to provide the information on the assignment of the graduate school education program to foreign students from other universities who have enrolled in the doctoral course at Kyushu University. The Graduate School of Science has implemented two education programs: The Front Researcher Program (FR) and The Advanced Scientist Program (AS), aimed at fostering human resources in line with the needs of science and society in the 21st century. Students enrolled in the Graduate School of Science must belong to one of these programs.

The core activities begin with forming your own supervisor's team and conducting research activities according to your plan through regular communication with the team. At the end of the fiscal year, you are expected to prepare a report on your research results and submit it to your supervisor. If approved by your supervisor, submit the report to the Office for Advancement of Scientific Programs (W1-B-306). This report will serve as the basis for evaluating your performance. We also offer an English Presentation course as part of the program, which you can participate in upon your request.

If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact the Office for Advancement of Scientific Programs or Student Affairs Section (W1-B-306; frasprog@sci.kyushu-u.ac.jp).

< Reference material >

- Overview

< Submission >

- Application Form

<Submission to>

The Office for Advancement of Scientific Programs in Graduate School
Education, or Student Affairs Section (W-1-B-306)

<Method of submission>

Send your application by email (frasprog@sci.kyushu-u.ac.jp).

※Note: Must add your supervisor's email address as Cc.

- Deadline : June 12th (Mon.)